GUARDS KILL THREE CONVICTS AS ESCAPE FROM JOLIET FOILED

Halt General Break; Fifteen Flee From Arizona Prison

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 23.—An orderly calm prevailed within the walls of Joliet Penitentiary today following the break for liberty which ended yesterday when three escaping convicts were killed by machine gun fire from an ambush of waiting guards.

Prison officials investigated reports that the trio's break for liberty was to have been the vanguard of a general liberation attempt inasmuch as a tension of restlessness had prevailed throughout the penitentiary for the past three weeks.

A kitchen detail of five men, overpowered a guard before dawn yesterday, threatening him with butcher knives. Sealing the prison walls with a crudely fashioned ladder and cable, they were only a few feet from freedom when the waiting guards opened fire with machine guns and automatic shotguns.

Two were instantly killed and the third convict died a few hours later. Warned by the rattle of guns, accomplices waiting a half a block away in two automobiles, escaped toward Chicago in a hail of bullets from the guard detail.

The three dead are: Joseph Nor. Kiewicz, alias Nor. K., 30; Julio Chilo, alias Capri, 39, and Alvin Kilmom, Jr., 33. All three men were sentenced from Chicago. Chilo had served in eastern penitentiaries and at Flint, Mich.

Groups of guards had been posted nightly outside the prison walls for the past two weeks as whispers of the intended break became more numerous. It was one of these squads which surprised the escaping convicts as they left the rudely constructed cable in the shadows of the prison wall.

THIRTEEN GAIN FREEDOM FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 23.—All available officers and guards, all heavily armed, scoured the nearby desert country today for thirteen of the fifteen convicts who late yesterday scaled a wall at the state prison here and escaped.

Two of the convicts were captured last night by a party of guards who had set out at the first alarm with bloodhounds to aid them in the man-hunt.

Officials believe that the men scaled the walls and escaped only a short time before the break was discovered. Capture of the two fugitive bore out this theory inasmuch as they were found only a short distance from the prison.

BANDIT LURED INTO TRAP AND SHOT BY POLICE

Captured In Ohio After Gun Battle With Officers

BARNESVILLE, O., Feb. 23.—Attracted home by a letter, apparently from his 20-year-old wife, but actually a police ruse to capture him, Lonie Taylor, 24, reputed Knoxville, Tenn., bandit, was held in Belmont County jail today, possibly fatally wounded, following his capture during a wild chase and shooting melee yesterday. A woman and another man were also held by authorities.

Surprised yesterday in the bathroom of the house where his wife lived, Taylor barricaded himself behind a locked door until he saw what looked like an opportunity to escape. Then he fled through a hall of bullets from police and pursuing citizens until his speeding car was wrecked on a curve a mile from the city.

Suffering from a bullet wound in the shoulder, inflicted by Patrolman Roy Gibson, and surrounded by his pursuers, Taylor surrendered himself in a cornfield a short distance from where his car was wrecked.

H. S. Smith, 26 and Bertha Ann, 24, alleged companions of Taylor, eluded the first attempts of authorities to capture them. They were arrested at a hotel a short time later, however, where police found them heavily armed.

Mrs. Trella Taylor, young wife of Lonie, was not held by police, who said she apparently knew nothing of her husband's alleged career of crime.

A note, purporting to be from his wife, but said to have been sent by police, lured Taylor back here Saturday and resulted in the gun battle and the man's arrest.

Found at his wife's home, Taylor attempted to shoot it out with his captors. The first shot he fired after police arrived knocked a cap off the head of Police Chief Bulger.

He continued answering the gun fire of citizens and police who tried to halt him when he tried to escape in Carl Talbot's auto, which he ordered Talbot from at a garage near his wife's home.

Knoxville police will take the three back to Tennessee, where, it is said, they are wanted for highway robbery.

AWAITS PRESIDENT'S ACTION ON BONUS Bill Eagerly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—While waiting to override President Hoover's expected veto of the $200,000,000 soldier's bonus loan bill, the dying congress today faced a light legislative program for the ten days remaining before its constitutional expiration March 4.

All the great departmental appropriation bills have passed both house and senate, eight being enacted, and one, the navy bill, being in conference. To complete its fiscal program, congress must adopt a conference report on the navy bill and finally pass the second deficiency bill. Then it will have appropriated nearly $5,000,000,000 to finance the government during another fiscal year.

The bonus bill was the major legislative item on the program, depending naturally upon the President's action. All his spokesmen agreed he would reject it, and the same leaders agreed congress would enact it over a veto.

BUGGY WRECKED BUT BABE UNHURT

COVINGTON, Ky., Feb. 23.—The 18-month-old son of Mrs. A. G. Davis today did not care to protest the loss of a perambulator here yesterday although the buggy is a total wreck.

The carriage was struck by an auto and though the baby was hurt to the street, examination proved that he didn't suffer a single scratch or broken bone. His mother pushed the buggy into the path of an approaching auto from behind a parked car, police said.

Death Stills Fine Voice Of Madame Nellie Melba

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 23.—Dame Nellie Melba, whose captivating voice thrilled music lovers the world over for approximately forty years, succumbed to a long illness here today.

She would have been 72 years old next May. Friends and members of the diva's family were at the bedside at the time of death. She has been a sufferer for many months of a strange malady believed to have been contracted during her Egyptian visit.

Nellie Melba, the "Australian nightingale," was born May 19, 1859 near Melbourne, Australia from which city she took her stage name.

She was Nellie Porter Mitchell, daughter of David Mitchell, a Scotsman of modest means. Her mother was of Spanish descent.

Despite objections of her father and mother to a career in music she persevered and eventually won them over. When she was 27 her father took her to Paris where she studied under the great Mme. Marchesi. Twelve months later she made her operatic debut before the king and queen of the Belgians as Cilda in "Rigoletto," at the Theatre De La Monnaie, Brussels. That was forty-two years ago.

Other triumphs followed in Milan, Paris, Stockholm, Berlin and finally in New York.

She appeared first in America during the world's fair of 1893.

Her career was brought to a close when in June, 1926, before the king and queen of England, she appeared as a public singer for the last time.

At the close of the war King George made her a dame of the British empire for her work on behalf of British soldiers, a signal honor which she prized highly.

When he was married in 1906, to Ruby Otway, a London heiress, his mother presented him with a castle in Ireland, and a handsome annuity.

FOUNDERS HONORED SATURDAY, SUNDAY AT WILBERFORCE U.

Pickrel, Patterson, Harlan Speakers As Celebration Opens

"George Washington had a vision and a spirit of making sacrifices to bring about the success of the pioneers of this country who organized the thirteen original states for the purpose of having freedom of speech and the betterment of manhood and womanhood," was the keynote of an address delivered by William G. Pickrel, Dayton, lieutenant governor of Ohio when he appeared before a packed auditorium at Wilberforce University, Sunday afternoon at the opening exercises celebrating Founders' Day.

An honorary escort of members of the R. O. T. C. and the band in full uniform, marched to the front of the Jackson Road and the Columbus Pike, where they awaited the arrival of the honored guest who came from Columbus and was accompanied by Mrs. Pickrel, Congressman Byron Harlan and Mrs. Harlan of Dayton.

The guests were given a warm reception by the audience arising during the rendition of a march by Miss Grace Edwards, President of the meeting which was the purpose of the meeting, the opening of Founders' Day and the beginning of plans for celebrating the Golden Jubilee in honor of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the school next June.

Dr. Andrew Rose of Dayton, national president of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity and a personal friend of the lieutenant governor, who presided, paid a high tribute to the state official, and said he is respected by both white and colored citizens for his fairness and zeal for the rights of all the people of Dayton.

"This afternoon when I came on the campus of Wilberforce University and viewed these magnificent buildings, I thought of what a great vision the founders of this institution must have had seventy-five years ago when this school was founded," said the speaker.

HEIRESS SECRETLY WEDS IS LEARNED

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas Ament, who inherited a fortune of several millions from her husband, the late E. R. Thomas, millionaire sportsman and publisher, was secretly married at Towan, Md., to Charles Hann, Jr., on Feb. 7, it was revealed today.

Hann, a former Harvard football star is a New York broker.

Mrs. Hann, who came to New York from Houston, Texas to become a chorus girl, has been married three times. Her second husband, whom she divorced in Rome last year, was Col. Lytton Ament.

DAME MELBA

Dame Nellie was married at the age of 19 to Capt. Charles N. F. Armstrong, son of an Irish baronet. A son, George Nesbit Armstrong, was born a year later. There followed a separation from both husband and son, and in 1900, Captain Armstrong, then engaged in ranching in Texas, obtained a divorce.

Dame Nellie was not reunited with her son until he was 23 years old. Meanwhile she had lavished on him everything at her command.

When he was married in 1906, to Ruby Otway, a London heiress, his mother presented him with a castle in Ireland, and a handsome annuity.

NEARLY 450 ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING HELD HERE SUNDAY

Speeches, Dinner For 170, And Parade Features Of Day

Nearly 450 Legionnaires from seven counties in the third American Legion district of Ohio attended the quarterly district conference at Central High School all day Sunday under auspices of Joseph P. Foody Post, the attendance exceeding any previous Legion gathering ever held in Ohio, exclusive of state conventions.

Legion posts of the district went on record in a resolution passed without a dissenting vote, supporting the proposed budget for additions and betterment and maintenance of the O. S. and S. O. Home here for the next two years, now pending before the state legislature. The resolution read:

"Whereas, the O. S. and S. O. Home at Xenia is now filled to capacity and the board of trustees has been forced to refuse admission to sons and daughters of ex-service men at the average rate of one each day, and

"Whereas, because of lack of financial support of the General Assembly in years gone by the Home cannot give these boys and girls the care, education and facilities desirable, and

"Whereas, the board of trustees of the Home has presented to the present session of the General Assembly a complete and justified budget, which calls for only those things that are absolutely needed, therefore, be it resolved—that the third district conference of the American Legion in session in Xenia heartily endorses the budget presented to the General Assembly in every detail, and that the General Assembly be urged to pass this appropriation without reduction, and

"Be it further resolved—that all members of the American Legion and auxiliary, all posts and units, the department headquarters of both the Legion and auxiliary, be called upon to assist in this reasonable expenditure in behalf of the orphans of ex-service men."

Copies of the resolution are to be forwarded to Governor George White, Howard Bevis, state finance director; Merle Breneman, budget superintendent; L. P. Mooney, chairman of the house finance committee; Robert Rohe, chairman of the senate finance committee; the executive committee of the Ohio department of the Legion, and to state Legion headquarters with instructions that each Ohio Legion post be provided with a copy, and urging Legionnaires to use their influence with the state senators and representatives in their respective districts over the state.

The conference opened at 9 a. m. with registration of delegates, music by the O. S. and S. O. Home band, a welcoming address by Jacob Kany, mayor of Xenia, and response by J. J. Deschene, Lewisburg, vice commander of the district, after which business sessions occupied most of the morning session.

Reports were given by various department district committees, including Fred G. Mumma, Osborn, chairman of the district executive committee; Irwin W. Rohlfis, Dayton, in charge of junior baseball; Carl N. Gibbons, Eaton, in charge of 4-H Club work; R. M. Keogh, Dayton, on membership; Carey Winborn, Springfield, in charge of special colored membership committee; Karl A. Stein, Dayton, head of post programs committee; Dr. A. F. Sarver, Greenville, band and drum corps; Ralph G. Sever, Eaton, uniforms; F. L.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 23.—Four men, armed with pistols and sawed-off shotguns, today invaded the foyer of the Arethusa Hotel in this Michigan health resort and robbed a Cleveland, Ohio, guest of two diamond rings valued at $3,500.

Police later were advised that the lobby of the Arethusa house when two of the alleged robbers were captured in Detroit. The men, Miller went to a table where Mrs. Samuel Alter of Cleveland, was playing bridge, and forced the woman to surrender the two valuable rings.

Authorities spread a dragnet for the other two robbers.

TEMPEST HITS WESTERN SICILY MONDAY; REPORT SIX ARE DEAD

PALERMO, Sicily, Feb. 23.—A raging tempest struck towns and villages in western Sicily today, taking a toll of at least six lives.

Torrential rains accompanied by winds of hurricane force caused tremendous damage, disrupting transportation and communication facilities and seriously hampering shipping.

Palerma, Messina, Catania, Taormina and their suburbs bore the full brunt of the storm. All traffic in Palermo was suspended, the lower districts of the city being entirely flooded, in some sections to a depth of seven feet.

Twenty small vessels were sunk in the harbor when the howling wind kicked up mid-ocean waves. Larger shipping, including one American vessel making Palermo a port of call, was forced to head out to sea to escape the gale's fury.

The suburb of Iddore was flooded when a swollen river burst its levees. Streets and squares were transformed into rivers and lakes.

Railroad communication throughout the affected area has been at a standstill.

PHYSICIANS WILL HONOR DR. CRILE

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—Dr. Geo. W. Crile, noted Cleveland surgeon and founder of the Cleveland Clinic, will be honored here tonight at a banquet given him by his associates in the medical profession.

EXECUTION BRINGS CLIMAX TO CAREERS OF THRILL SLAYERS

Pair Convicted For Policeman's Death Pay Penalty

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN I. N. S. Staff Correspondent (An Official Eye-Witness To the Executions)

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 23.—Without uttering a sound and with a faint wistful smile on her lips, Irene Schroeder, 22-year-old "gun-girl," and "thrill slayer," died in the electric chair here today, the first woman to be electrocuted in the history of Pennsylvania.

She was followed to the chair by Glenn Dague, her sweetheart and partner in crime. They paid the penalty for the shooting of Corporal Brady Paul, highway policeman.

Attired in a gray rayon smock, with white collar and cuffs, she walked into the citadel of death with a firm tread and went without assistance to the chair.

She was "Iron Irene" to the end. Although a nurse in white brocade and went violently, Irene did not shed a tear.

As they adjusted the leather mask, with its slits at the eyes and mouth, Irene's lips seemed to curl ever so slightly—a half-determined, final leer at the law and society.

Irene's blanched countenance seemed to age years in the brief space of seconds from the time she shuffled to the big open door at the brilliantly illuminated death chamber until they strapped her in the weird contraption they call "the chair."

A tomb-like silence almost terrifying in its oppressiveness, enveloped the room as the gaunt, hollow-eyed executioner, Robert W. Elliott, the same man who threw the switch on Ruth Snyder three years ago, crammed down the lever that sent 2,000 volts of electricity through the puppet-like form of the girl they called "Iron Irene."

There was a sibilant hiss of high voltage, the low whir and whine of electricity interspersed with a faint crackle and sputtering—and the mad career of the small town waitress who turned "triguer woman" was at an end.

A few minutes later—endless minutes they seemed to the little knot of witnesses who stood looking on with wrenched hearts—Irene's lover and partner-in-crime, Glenn Dague, 34 years old, a married man and father who gave up his home for an illicit romance, met death in almost precisely the same manner.

Dague, buoyed up by a suddenly acquired religious fervor, also died without uttering a syllable.

The only emotion he displayed was a violent quivering of his eyelids.

Thus did Irene and Glenn pay the extreme penalty for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, state highway patrolman, whom they shot to death on Dec. 27, 1929, when he attempted to intercept a car after a holdup at Butler, Pa.

Irene started on her death march—the "last mile"—at two minutes before 7 o'clock. While she was emerging from her cell, the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, her spiritual adviser and an evangelist, sang: "Lord God, Be With Me At This Hour."

Several other voices accompanied his, the singing echoing through the grim corridor of "murder row."

GUARD HAVANA AFTER BLASTS

HAVANA, Feb. 23. — Important Havana buildings were under heavy police guard today to prevent a recurrence of the epidemic of bomb explosions which excited the city Saturday night.

Property damage after the third separate blast recorded during the night was small and no injuries were reported. Four of the bombs were set in front of the presidential palace, and one within a block of central police headquarters.

Eighteen students, including six girls, were arrested in a raid on the student council meeting of the suspended national university.

A clash occurred between police and laborers when authorities sought to break up a labor meeting. Some fifty workers were arrested, and a score injured.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN YELLOW SPRINGS BANK HOLDUP PROBE

Suspected of having been identified with the Negro bandit trio which held up and robbed the Miami Deposit Bank in Yellow Springs of $1,895 last Thursday morning, two colored men, apprehended by Dayton police Sunday night, are being held, pending the arrival of Fred Kershner and Miss Clara Zell, bank employees, who went to Dayton, Monday in an attempt to identify them.

The suspects are James Lee, 35, of 62 Eaker St., and Lonnie Barnes, 55, of 703 W. Fifth St., both of Dayton. The men are friends and arresting officers reported they had expended considerable sums of money in the last few days. A request from Yellow Springs authorities that Lee be located resulted in the arrest of the two men, it is said.

Springfield police had previously arrested two Negroes as suspects in the bank robbery but the men were later released when bank employees were unable to identify either of them as members of the bandit gang.

GETS STATE JOB

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—F. W. Mowery of Coshocton, today began his duties as executive secretary to the state office building commission. He succeeded Charles Simmerall of Steubenville, resigned.

A DEATH-BED
HER suffering ended with the day.
Yet lived she at its close,
And breathed the long, long night away
In statue-like repose.

But when the sun in all its state
Illumed the eastern skies,
She passed through Glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise.
—James Aldrich (1810-1856)

YOUR clothes, once inside one of these tough net bags cannot possibly come in contact with wearing surfaces in their journey through the laundry. These bags are just one more reason why laundry-washed clothes last longer—all possibility of wear is completely eliminated, and they return to you clean, fresh and sanitary. We wash only in filtered, rainsoft water heated to sterilizing temperatures. Laundry-washed clothes do last longer—and are cleaner.

PLAN ASSISTANCE FOR TAX PAYERS

In order to give the taxpayers in the first district of Ohio all possible assistance in filing their 1930 income tax returns, Collector of Internal Revenue Louis J. Huwe has arranged a schedule under which Greene County taxpayers requiring assistance may call at the Xenia post office any time from March 11 to 14, both dates inclusive. A deputy collector will be stationed at the federal building during this period to help taxpayers in preparing their returns.

Under the revenue act of 1928, every single person having a net income of $1,500 or more, or a married person having a net income of $3,500 or more must file a return, and every person having a gross income of $5,000 or more must file a return regardless of the amount of his net income. Returns filed after March 16 will be subject to heavy penalties.

FIREMEN ANSWER TWO MORE ALARMS

The Xenia fire department made two more runs over the week-end in response to the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth alarms of the year but the damage from two small fires was negligible. The apparatus was called to the Regal Hotel at Main and Whiteman Sts., at 8:56 p. m. Saturday when water overflowing from a bath tub caused a short circuit in the wiring of a fixture in the lobby, no damage resulting. Damage placed at $5 was by a roof fire at the home of O. A. Hagler, 134 E. Third St., at 12:10 p. m. Sunday, sparks from a flue igniting the shingle roof.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

All who for any reason examine the work of the federal farm board ought to keep steadily in mind the special handicaps under which it has had to operate.

The marketing act was passed, and the farm board set up, at a time when prices of farm products had been fairly stable for several years. Mostly they were too low to give farmers satisfactory buying power, but at least they had maintained farm buying power at a level roughly around eleven billions of dollars annually.

What the marketing act aimed to do was to help farmers to set up improved machinery for selling their stuff, so that their bargaining power could make itself felt as higher prices to producers.

That is a long-time job. It is difficult at best, and it may turn out to be impossible. Many level-headed people think so.

But before the farm board had had a chance to more than get organized and decide where to make a start, along came the stock market crash. Farm prices held up fairly well for a time, but presently they began to slip, and in the middle of 1930 they came down in a heap.

The result was that the farm board, instead of thinking up means to improve farm prices, had to turn in and help keep them from going completely to smash. Instead of building new structures, they had to turn themselves into a fire company to fight a blaze in the old ones.

Everybody knows the result to date. Prices of farm staples, just about to slide completely off the roof, caught on the nails driven by the farm board, and have hung there for the last four or five months. I am mixing my metaphors a little, but you get what I mean.

Other prices than cotton, wheat and corn are variable—some down, some half-way down, a few at satisfactory levels. All are awaiting the recovery in general business in the cities which will give them a chance to come back to profitable levels.

If and when this happens, the farm board will be in a position to unload its emergency job, and return to its main function of making permanent improvements in the selling of farm products.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If a man say I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.—I John, iv, 20, 21.

CALAMITIES AND FOLLIES

Some people claim that industrial depressions have always come from time to time and can't be helped. This is a hopeless kind of attitude that ought not to be adopted in regard to any of our troubles.

Industrial depressions come from two things. They are either started by natural calamities that could not be helped, or by some form of human folly. The country seemed to be making steady recovery from the 1930 depression last spring and early summer, when the worst drought in history came along, and postponed recovery. That was a calamity that could not be helped.

But the original start of the depression was due principally to the human folly of excessive stock speculation. The depression of 1920-21 was due to the human folly of exaggerated spending, which pushed prices of merchandise up so high that people refused to buy. The depression of 1893-94 was due to political controversies and exaggerated speculation in land and other property.

It is absurd to talk about not being able to stop such human follies. The people are willing to learn, and they do not often get hurt twice in precisely the same way. They had suffered much from banking panics, until finally they massed the banking reserves of the country under the federal reserve act, and stopped panics due to that cause. It would seem that now they have seen enough of the folly of exaggerated stock speculation, so that it will be a long time before they fall into that error again. They will make other errors no doubt. But with a sound currency system and a vivid memory of the catastrophe of 1929, our people ought to be able to go on many years without seeing any such serious industrial reverses.

MR. EDISON'S VIEW

Thomas A. Edison is interviewed regularly by the reporters, and no one is listened to with more respect. Most people at his age of 84 years, have a great deal to say in criticism of the times, and they mourn the departure of the "good old days."

Mr. Edison, with his incessant activity, is more in sympathy with modern life. He denied a few days ago in his birthday interview, that the American people are living at too fast a pace, and he does not feel that the people crave too many luxuries.

In the main the so-called luxuries represent improved ways of living. A few years ago, a radio set might have been called a luxury, but today we know that it accomplishes wonders for home life and education. Bath tubs, electrical devices, and many other things are called luxuries by some, but they lighten our work and increase our productive powers. Long may Mr. Edison live to express these hopeful views.

ESTIMATE OF WASHINGTON

W. E. H. Lecky, the British historian, living within forty years of Washington's death, said: "He never acted on the impulse of an absorbing or uncalculating enthusiasm and he valued very highly fortune, position and reputation; but at the command of duty he was ready to risk and sacrifice them all. He was in the highest sense of the word a gentleman and a man of honor and he carried into public life the severest standard of private morals. It was at first the constant dread of large sections of the American people that if the old government were overthrown, they would fall into the hands of military adventurers and undergo the yoke of military despotism. It was mainly the transparent integrity of the character of Washington that dispelled the fear."

Of course if Mr. Vanderbilt wants to sue General Butler that's his business, but he surely can't expect to get Signor Mussolini to go on the witness stand for him.

Abraham Lincoln did not live to see the fruits of his successful battle to save the union—nor to see curish scribes libeling his memory for pieces of silver.

FLIGHT

You hear a lot about "escape" literature these days. Do you know what it is? It's probably one of the books you are reading right now and enjoying as much as anything you ever read. A detective story, a mystery tale, a book of adventure in a far land, an idyllic love story—all these are "escape" literature.

And do you know why you like such books? It's a shameful secret, but you really ought to know. For your own good, you should be told. You like "escape" books because you're miserably unhappy, weary of life, disgusted with yourself and you want to make a clean, cheap flight out of trouble into a land where all is different. The theory is that you don't amount to much and you know you don't. So you read books in which you can be the great detective, the valorous general, the shamelessly lazy fellow who lies on a southern shore and lets the breadfruit drop into his mouth.

That's you but you didn't know it, did you? You didn't know you were afraid of life and that you fled from it into books—that when you liked a tale extremely you were admitting your own craven fear of existence. When you were a small boy and read dime novels you fled. When you collected stamps and cigar bands and bird's eggs you weren't really imitating the maples—you were fleeing. If you play bridge or like dogs or have any hobby at all, it isn't because you like bridge or dogs or anything like that, but because you're AFRAID to face life as it is. Even if you're excited about your job or your profession, you're not fooling anybody but yourself. You're making a flight from the Grim Facts of Life.

Who told me all this? Nobody in particular. I've just picked it up here and there from magazine articles, from words Solomon Folk have let drop. I've gotten the idea that if I'm intensely interested in anything, I should suspect it. It's dangerous. It's unworthy of me. And I ought to be ashamed of myself because I'm slipping. I should like gloom. I should be tough. I should enjoy ill health and welcome pessimism, sner at all happy endings. I shouldn't try to escape, but should stay where I am and take my punishment.

Well, I don't know. I think I'd rather escape. . . It's more fun. And I can't be bothered wondering every time I like something if I really like it or am running shamefully away from life. Can you?

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

By whom and where was the American Legion named?

The American Legion was formed by a group of A. E. F. men, headed by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who met in Paris March 15, 16 and 17, 1919. The name "American Legion" was one of 20 names considered by the committee on names. The committee reported in favor of "Legion of the Great War" with Veterans of the Great War as a second choice. The controversy was carried to the floor, where even greater differences of opinion developed. Major Maurice K. Gordon of Texas, 36th division, moved the adoption of "American Legion." This was adopted by the convention March 16, 1919.

SOUTH POLE

When and by whom was the South Pole discovered?

The South Pole was discovered on December 14, 1911, by the Norwegian explorer, Roald Amundsen.

CONFEDERATE MONEY

What was the value of Confederate money after 1865?

After April 1, 1865, it took from $800 to $1,000 in Confederate money to buy a one dollar greenback.

PLAYING CARDS

When were playing cards first in use?

The first pack of playing cards of which any copy is preserved was in use in Venice in 1125, and contained 78 cards in all, 22 of which were picture cards of very quaint character. One picture card represented the devil, another death, a third the moon, a fourth the sun, while the fifth depicted the judgment day. The Venetians called it the game of tarots and it was no doubt the original parent of the modern card pack, with its kings, queens, knaves, etc.

MOVIE STAR

When and where was William Haines the movie star born?

William Haines was born January 1, 1900 in Staunton, Va.

BARATHRON

What was the Barathron?

The Barathron was a deep gorge outside of Athens, originally a quarry, and artificially enlarged, into which criminals condemned to death were hurled. Here the messengers sent by Darius to demand symbols of submission from the Athenians were put to death.

ASPARAGUS

Of what country is asparagus native?

Asparagus was originally a wild sea-coast plant, and is a native of Great Britain.

FRENCH

What is the meaning of the French phrase "Aide-toi et le ciel l'aidera"?

"Help thyself, and Heaven will help thee." This was the cry of certain French political writers to the middle classes about the year 1824. It became the watchword and title of a society having for its object to arouse the electoral body in opposition to the government. The society had a great share in bringing about the revolution of July, 1830. It was dissolved in 1832.

RELIGIOUS NOTES

Like Blue Chip weddings, gangster funerals have risen in price and splendor in Tammany Town in the last few years.

That illustrious strong-arm-man and invalidator of Volstead, "Joe the Baker," who recently dropped in a hall of lead from sawed-off shotguns, was carried to his final resting place the other day in a $19,000 casket, trailed by 40 cars bearing $25,000 worth of flowers. Joe's mortal remains will repose (let us hope) in a receiving vault costing $20,000.

Eighty-five automobiles bore the mourners, 30 of whom were frisked by the cops before they were permitted to enter the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and assist at a solemn mass of requiem.

SLAP AT ART

In a play put on some time ago by a small stock company, one of the scenes was in the trenches on the Western front. The author, to convey the impression that the men in the scene were being fired on from across No Man's Land, wanted to have two or three handfuls of gravel thrown at them from back-stage.

He had ordered this done when a representative of the union appeared and said that two extra

THE POWER BEHIND THE THRONE (IN SPAIN)

Senator Couzens, Ex-Police Head, Sees No Need for Rough Treatment of Unemployment Demonstrations

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan frowns on the night stick and tear bomb method of dealing with unemployment demonstrations.

The senator discusses police problems from the standpoint of practical experience. He was police commissioner of Detroit before graduating into the mayoralty and then coming to the United States senate and, in his day as head of its force of peace guards, his home city rated among the country's best-behaved of big industrial centers.

Even yet the Wolverine solon speaks regretfully of his lost commissioner'ship. "I never filled a position I liked so well," he once said me. "But I had to give it up," and he sighed.

"A candidate was running for mayor on a platform which included my removal if he won. I'd no choice but to run against him, to prevent it. Though I beat him, it cost me the commissioner'ship, when I became mayor."

However, in the present instance it was a question concerning the proper police handling of unemployment demonstrations that I had asked the senator. The country has had a number of them in recent months, the national capital itself has been the scene of one or two, and the suggestion is made that frequently they are of Communistic inspiration.

"Suppose," they are," answered the senator.

"What of it?" "Is a gathering of the unemployed any the less a gathering of the unemployed because maybe a few radicals were instrumental in organizing it?"

"Our five or six millions of jobless workers naturally seek leadership. 'Whose fault is it if Communists are readiest to offer it?'"

"There's no denying," he continued, "that the police often find the trouble that so many of these affairs wind up in. 'It's true enough that unauthorized demonstrations generally break a certain number of minor regulations. They block traffic and interrupt business. But it's equally true that the good nature of our huge army of the unemployed has been remarkable throughout this entire crisis. The way not to provoke disorder is not to begin it."

"As for the sprinkling of reds' who may be present in an unemployment crowd, actually hoping for hostilities, the first thought of the police ought to be to avoid giving them, if possible, what they are looking for."

"That here and there in every such assemblage a belligerent individual is to be found who wants nothing so earnestly as to take a wallop at somebody, no one knows better than I do, because I always was one of them."

"Temperamentally I'm militantly staid hands would have to be hired at $12 a day, apiece. Asked why, he explained that the gravel after being thrown, would doubtless fall on the stage and that at least two more stagehands would be needed to sweep it up at the end of the act."

"Two full-grown stagehands at $12 a day each, to sweep up two handfuls of gravel!" exclaimed the author.

The union man merely shrugged. If the gravel were thrown, and the two extra men were not hired, why, of course, it would be necessary to call off all the stagehands, and thus close the show.

with the workers in every labor dispute.

"As long ago as when I was a boy, I recall a Detroit street car strike it was in the old horse-car era) during which, despite the tie-up, one big, husky chap among the bosses persisted in driving a car regularly, every trip, right through everything—and I can remember yet how I longed to see that fellow beaten up."

The senator's face hardened reminiscently.

"Still," he added, "as police commissioner of Detroit I did business with as formidable a character as 'Big Bill' Heywood, and no blood spilled."

"Bill had come to town to make a speech. 'Plenty of prominent citizens wanted me to prevent it, but I didn't see how I could, so long as he urged no overt act of violence.'"

"I was on hand at the meeting with 20 policemen. I warned Bill that he mustn't preach sabotage, but otherwise he was free to express whatever political and economic views suited him. Then I took a seat on the platform to listen."

"It was a violent speech, all right, but Bill kept inside legal limits; so I simply sat there."

"I've been called a radical ever since, on account of my attitude," said the senator, "but the fact remains that what others may happen to think is none of a police department's business."

"Some folk appear to forget that there is no law against radical ideas."

"They talk of deporting radicals! Why peaceful advocacy even of a change in our form of government is no crime."

"George Washington advocated it—and not so peacefully."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

—By MRS. MARY MORTON—

MENU HINT

BREAKFAST

Stewed Fruit, Toast, Cooked Cereal and Top Milk, Coffee (for adults), Milk (for children).

DINNER

Whole Wheat, Fish, and Tomatoes, Spinach, Baked Potatoes (for children), Applesauce.

SUPPER

Cream of Vegetable Soup, Potatoes Au Gratin, Oatmeal Cookies, Tea (for adults), Milk (for children).

These recipes serve five people. This is a menu suggested by the home economics bureau of the United States department of agriculture. It serves a well balanced meal for the lowest possible cost.

Today's Recipes

Cream of Vegetable Soup.—Two tablespoons finely chopped rutabaga turnip, two tablespoons finely chopped carrots, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, two tablespoons melted butter or other fat, one tablespoon flour, one quart milk, and one-half teaspoons salt. Cook the finely chopped vegetables in the fat for 10 minutes, add the flour, stir until all are blended. In the meantime heat the milk in a double boiler, add a little of it to the vegetable mixture, stir well, combine with the rest of the milk, lid the salt, and cook for 10 minutes. The flavor is improved if the soup is allowed to stand for a short time to blend before serving. Reheat and serve.

Potatoes Au Gratin.—One and one-half cups milk, two tablespoons flour, two tablespoons butter or other fat, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth pound cheese, grated; four cups cooked diced potatoes, one cup buttered bread crumbs. Prepare a sauce with the milk, flour, fat and salt. Add the cheese, and stir until melted. In a shallow greased baking dish place the potatoes, pour the cheese sauce over them, and cover the top with the buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 to 30 minutes, or until the crumbs are golden brown and the potatoes are thoroughly heated. Serve from the baking dish.

Oatmeal Cookies.—One and one-half cups flour, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon soda, one cup sugar, one-third cup cooking oil, one-half cup chopped raisins, one and one-half cups oatmeal, one egg, seven tablespoons milk. Sift the flour, salt, cinnamon and soda. Mix the sugar with the oil, and the raisins with the oatmeal. Put all these ingredients together and add the beaten egg and the milk. Stir until well mixed. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased pans, about two inches apart. Bake in a moderately hot oven from 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. This makes three dozen cookies.

Specialist Tells Success Secrets

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Children have quite a siege of ear troubles in the winter. Coughs and colds and infections of all kinds assail them, and children are queer customers in some ways, and do not always present the same sort of picture to their families and doctors that adults do with the same disease.

A famous children's specialist has recently written that he made his reputation because he learned two things. The two things he learned are part of what every mother should know. One is that pneumonia does not hurt children. The other is that if a child has a cough and fever it is a sign there is an infection in the ear.

He relates an experience of having been called on the long distance telephone and being asked to come quite a distance to see a sick child who seemed to be puzzling the local experts. He asked what the child's symptoms were and was told by the father "Cough and fever." He suggested that the ear be examined, and it turned out that the child had an infection of the inner ear. The family was saved a large consultation fee, the doctor a tiresome trip and the patient a long wait before diagnosis was made by the exercise of this piece of wisdom.

Cough caused by irritation in the ear is a reflex due to a curious anatomical arrangement of the nerves. One of the nerves which goes to the bronchial tubes sends a small branch to the canal of the ear. As a consequence, any irritation of the ear is likely to induce a cough by setting up a reflex. You may be familiar with this by remembering any time your ear was washed out for treatment purposes with a syringe; it always makes you cough.

One of the frequent experiences of physicians with children is to find a loud persistent whoop as the sign of a foreign body in the ear. The child playing on the floor pops a bean or a pea into the ear. It immediately induces a violent fit of coughing which wedges the bean tightly into the canal of the ear. By that time the child has forgotten all about it, or is afraid to say anything about it for fear of being scolded. The only thing that remains is the cough. To the mother this sound like croup or bronchitis. Only to the initiated does this spell the advisability of looking into the ear for the cause of the trouble.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS L. G. S., Massachusetts: "What is the cause of shingles? How does one prevent attacks?"

Answer: Shingles, or herpes zoster, is generally considered to be an infection due to one of the organisms too small to be seen with any of our microscopes. There is no known method of preventing a first attack. But the first attack confers immunity and thereafter second attacks do not occur. If you have already had it, you need not worry about prevention.

Stand By Young People

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE—

"If I were hanged on the highest hill Mother o'mine, I know whose love would follow me still."

I WISH that were ALWAYS true. And I wish that it included fathers and grandfathers and aunts and uncles, etc.

Our children are born into this world without their consent and are variously brought up. They may do wrong, and who is there to tell, when they do, whose is the fault?

All parents and guardians can do is to stand by them and help them out. Better, still, always keep close to them so that you can forestall the wrong-doing, if possible. When society realizes that criminals are probably not responsible for their evil doing, but are the victims of environment, training, ignorance, ill health, either physical or mental, etc., and treats them accordingly, this world will be a great deal better off than it is.

And older people should always bear in mind that maybe when young people step from the straight and narrow path it may be their older ones—fault. Then they would try to help instead of raving and nagging and turning them out.

All this is preface to answering a letter from a young girl who was turned out, after a slight quarrel, of the only home she has known since early childhood. And there by followed all her troubles.

Hopefully Waiting For An Answer: You poor little kid. Of course you haven't been wise or good, but I blame your natural protectors principally for your condition. I can't imagine anyone—let alone a near relative—turning a young girl out without funds or a place to go.

JUST SEVENTEEN: It was poor judgment and taste on the part of the young man to show your letters to other fellows, but maybe it was, as he says, because he was proud of them. Be careful, in writing to such a person, that you say nothing that would not be all right for anyone to read.

If you are convinced that he is sincere in his desire to be forgiven, and you care enough about him, don't hesitate to write him again, heeding the caution I just mentioned.

Exercise Makes Limbs Shapely

—By GLADYS GLAD—

"Dear Miss Glad: Although my legs are rather well-shaped from the knees down, my thighs are very thin. For this reason, I look a perfect fright in a bathing suit. I'd like to get my thighs into better shape before the next bathing season, and would be grateful for any advice that you might be able to give me on fattening the thighs. The instructions on hair care contained in your "Beauty Culture" booklet have proven so successful in eradicating the dandruff from my hair and scalp, that I feel that any advice you may give me in this matter will be most effective. The following exercises practiced vigorously every day will help to develop and shape your thighs:

Stand erect, heels together, hands on hips. Bend the knees and squat to a sitting position. Return to first position and repeat. The back should be kept straight during this exercise.

Lie flat on your back, arms extended overhead. Raise the legs upward at right angles to the body, and then very slowly lower them to the floor.

Lie flat on your back, arms extended overhead. Bring the legs up to the chest, and then make a complete circle with each limb, alternating the legs in bicycle riding fashion.

In addition to these exercises, you might massage your thighs nightly with warmed cocoa butter. This will help to fatten the tissues and round out the contours of your thighs.

"Dear Miss Glad: I have a lovely set of strong, white teeth, and I am anxious to keep them in good condition. I brush my teeth every morning and night, but am not sure that I do the brushing correctly. What is the best method of brushing the teeth? Jessica."

Residence of the basketball championship of the Miami Valley League will not be moved from Xenia for at least another year because the Buccaneers have again taken a chattel mortgage on the title—their fourth straight.

Tying with Piqua High after the fashion of a cat playing with a mouse, Xenia preserved its chaste and immaculate record in league competition (we never seem to get tired of using this expression, or an expression a whole lot like this) by beating the Indian 20 to 15 Friday night.

The result was almost a foregone conclusion. Buccaneer quints have been winning M. V. L. games with such monotonous regularity for the last four years that Piqua had no pre-game illusions of possible victory and Xenia cagers won as they pleased, making points when it pleased them and making sure only of keeping safely ahead of the Westmen at all times.

It would appear that Xenia's league record is fool-proof. By this time other league teams have doubtless abandoned all hope of defeating the Bucs in basketball.

Faced with the necessity of scoring twelve points in the Piqua game in order to tie, they tried forward, for the Centinians of tallying more points than any other player in the league this year, Harold Glass, Xenia center, did his best but fell one point short of his goal. He obtained eleven points, lacking one of tying the Trojan, and lacking two of winning individual scoring honors. Eager to have him achieve the feat of overtaking Oxy, Harold's mate continually "fed" him the ball at every opportunity, but it was no go. Birch Bell, Xenia forward, who was runner-up for high scoring in the league last year, finished seventh this season.

The prevailing depression has been reflected in basketball this season, according to Coach Marvin Borst of Cedarville College. College teams are having difficulty in meeting expenses and for this reason Wilmington College and Morehead College, Morehead, Ky., are trying to cancel scheduled return games with Cedarville. The Urbana Junior College team, also booked for a return game with the Borstmen, is reported to have been disbanded, and as a result the Yellow Jackets may play only one more game, return contest with Wilberforce in March.

Coach Borst says that Cedarville is about breaking even financially this season but that so many games are being played by college, high school, independent and professional teams every week that fans either cannot afford or simply do not care to attend all the games, thereby making it hard for all teams to even make expenses.

Bowling

The Krippendorf-Dittman Co. bowling team regained the pinnacle position in the City League last week, ousting the Central Acceptance Corp. from the league leadership, but only five percentage points separate the two teams with the American Legion a close third. The rejuvenated Legion team, from present indications, may yet win the league championship despite a poor showing early in the season.

Status of the Recreation League race remained unchanged last week with the champion Greene County Lumber Co. team maintaining its three-game advantage over the Schmidt Oil Co.

Here is the schedule of matches in both leagues this week: Monday—Schmidt Oil Co. vs. Lang Chevrolet; Tuesday—Gr. Co. L. Co. vs. American Legion; Thursday—Red Wing Co. vs. Xenia Shoes; Friday—American Legion vs. Carroll-Binder at 7 p. m.; Central Acceptance vs. Krippendorf at 9 p. m.

Standing in the Recreation League follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Gr. Co. L. Co.	53	13	.803
Schmidt Oil Co.	50	16	.757
Red Wing Co.	39	27	.590
American Legion	25	41	.378
Xenia Shoes	20	46	.303
Lang Chevrolet	11	55	.166

Standing in the City League follows:

Krippendorf	30	24	.555
Central Acceptance	33	27	.550
American Legion	30	27	.526
Carroll-Binder	21	36	.368

Hollis Peterson, member of the league-leading Gr. Co. L. Co. team, who has participated in every game his team has rolled this season, continues to be the high average bowler in the Recreation League with a mark of 195 for sixty-six games. Following is a list of the ten bowlers with highest averages:

BUCCS ENDED SEASON MID-WAY THROUGH GAME WITH STIVERS

Called It A Day After First Half But Dayton Team Works "Open-Shop" Hours; After Central Quit Visitors Won 34 To 21

By PHIL FRAME

N OBODY was demanding a recount Monday of Xenia Central High's seasonal finale basketball game with Dayton Stivers Saturday eve at the local gym, but it was a noteworthy fact that some of our more enlightened minds were hinting that, although a good team won by a 34 to 21 count, a better team, or one at least equally as good, lost the contest.

Their idea was that although Stivers won by a seemingly substantial margin in the regulation playing period of thirty-two minutes, the Buccaneers would probably have been victorious providing the game could have been extended another hour or so.

That is a sterling thought and it is too bad life cannot always be conducted on this basis, because following this line of reasoning, nobody would ever lose. Even so, a team with a thirteen-point advantage would be off to a sprightly start over any route that could be named.

It is almost unbelievable that Xenia and Stivers were tied at 17 to 17 at the end of the third quarter, and yet the three-time state champions were able to roll up exactly as many points in the last eight minutes of play as they had amassed in the first three periods of the contest. Still, this is absolutely what happened.

They say that habits formed in infancy are difficult to overcome in later years and Xenia cagers exhibit have developed a losing habit in engagements with Stivers teams.

It would appear that Xenia basketballers, if thirsty, had better quit ordering an Orange Crush. This is too potent a drink and the hangover is always annoying. We would suggest something more mild without the orange flavoring, something that at the same time has a more stimulating effect, preventing a complete collapse in the fourth quarter.

It is generally admitted that the Blue and White cagers outplayed the Crusader for three-quarters of the game; it must be confessed

Visitors Take Five Firsts To Capture Meet 42 To 19

The first intercollegiate swimming meet ever held in Xenia resulted in an overwhelming victory for McClain High School of Greenfield over the O. S. and S. O. Home swimming team Friday by a margin of 42 to 19, the meet being staged in the indoor pool at the Xenia institution.

McClain swimmers took five first place in the eight events on the program.

Jones, a member of the Home team, accounted for three first places all by himself, outdiving Dwyer of McClain, outswimming Cox of McClain in the forty-yard free style event and leading Cook of McClain by nearly fifteen yards in the 100-yard back stroke.

Cox and Wilkin were the principal point-getters for Greenfield and both were members of the team which beat the Home by inches in the relay event. Each also accounted for a first and second place in other events.

Several previous records for the Home pool were shattered during the meet, new marks being established for the 160-yard relay and the breast stroke. The time for the relay was three-tenths of a second faster than the best previous mark and the record for the breast stroke was bettered by eleven seconds.

A few members of the Home swimming team are entered in the state swimming meet at Dayton Saturday. The cadet swimmers will be stronger for the return meet with McClain at Greenfield March 2 by the addition of several boys now playing basketball, who have begun to train for the coming meet.

Following is a summary of the events on the program of the meet held Friday and the names of those who placed:

160-yard relay—McClain High (Cox, Chaney, Marcross and Wilkin); time—1:34, a new record.

Diving—Jones (Home), first; Dwyer (McClain) second; Rhodes (Home), third.

Forty-yard free style—Jones (Home), first; Cox (McClain), second; McKinley (Home) third.

100-yard back stroke—Jones (Home), first; Cook (McClain), second; Lowder (McClain), third; time—1:27.

220-yard free style—Wilkin (McClain), first; Chaney (McClain), second.

100-yard breast stroke—Lane (McClain), first; Dwyer (McClain), second; Trumphour (Home) third; time—1:38, a new record, old record of 1:49 being held by Lakes of the Home.

100-yard free style—Cox (McClain), first; Wilkin (McClain), second; Marion (Home) third; time—68.2 seconds.

120-yard medley relay—McClain High first (Cook, Lane and Marcross); time—1:28.8.

EAST HIGH TO PLAY

East High School's basketball team has booked a game with Dayton Hi-Y quintet to be staged Thursday night this week at East High gymnasium. East cagers exhibited improved form in their last game, defeating the Cincinnati Hi-Y court team by a decisive margin.

HERE ARE FOUR-TIME MIAMI VALLEY CHAMPS

Ladies and gentlemen—introducing Xenia Central High School's 1930-31 Buccaneer basketball squad, four-time champions of the Miami Valley League.

The Buccaneer quintet, like its predecessors, wound up its current league campaign, undefeated, by virtue of its victory over Piqua Friday night in the season's finale in the circuit. Since the M. V. L. was founded, Xenia cagers teams have never known the meaning of defeat and during the last four years the Bucs have won twenty—think of it—straight games in league competition. Personnel of the 1931 basketball squad: front row, left to right—James Ralls, Birch Bell, Howard Thompson, Harold Glass, Lester Price and Freddie Dalton; second row—Coach Walter C. "Pinky" Wilson, Edwood Shaffer, Marvin Spahr, David Short, Robert Dice and Irvin Hyman, senior manager.

Andrews, Stivers forward, was the ring-leader of the Crusader attack with four baskets and three fouls for eleven points, while Moses, lanky center, was not far behind with eight. Stivers picked up ten points at the foul line out of fourteen shots, while Xenia converted seven out of twelve free throws.

Buccaneer cagers took a total of forty-five shots at the hoop as compared with thirty-six for Stivers.

The contest, marking the first appearance of a Stivers basketball team in Xenia in many years, was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season.

Xenia wound up its campaign with a record of nine triumphs against six defeats and possibly the luck of the draw may provide the Bucs with an opportunity to meet Stivers again in the sectional state tournament in a couple of weeks. Lineups:

Antioch College's current basketball season was brought to a close Saturday night at Yellow Springs when the Division "A" cage team bowed to Hanover College, Hanover, Ind., 33 to 8. Antioch basketballers furnished plenty of opposition in the first half, which ended in the Hoosier school's favor, 10 to 6, but in the last period Hanover outscored the home quintet, twenty-one to two.

Hanover recently scored a four-point victory over Wilmington College's Green Tornado.

The current cage season was productive of one victory for Antioch, this triumph being scored by the Division "B" team at the expense of Cedarville College. Division "A" basketballers lost the three games played. Lineups:

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—Abolition of basketball's center tip-off jump will be proposed at the fifth annual meeting of the national basketball "Coaches' Association" at New York on March 27, 28 and 29, to which scores of Ohio high school and college coaches have been invited. It was predicted here today by H. G. Olsen, Ohio State University coach.

Olsen, who is chairman of the association's organization committee, made this prediction simultaneously with the issuing of invitations to the meeting. More than 200 coaches will attend.

Argument over the one-bounce dribble also is expected at the meeting, he said. Proposed changes in the rules will be submitted to a national joint rules committee which meets in New York April 9, 10 and 11.

The O. S. and S. O. Home basketball quintet closed its 1930-31 season by losing to Stivers High School reserves, 33 to 18 at Dayton Saturday night. The score was almost identical to the Orange Crusader second team's margin of victory over the Cadets in a game played three weeks ago when the count was 33 to 17.

The Home cagers displayed marked improvement, however, especially in the first half, which ended in favor of Stivers, 19 to 11. Trumphour topped the Home scoring with six points while Hall tallied nine for the winners.

MAY ENLARGE PRISON

MANFIELD, O., Feb. 23.—Some plans of enlarging the Mansfield reformatory here are expected to be suggested by Governor White and Welfare Director John McSweeney after they visit the institution sometime within the next few weeks.

HOME TAKES NINTH PLACE IN SWIMMING MEET ON SATURDAY

Murray Jones, member of the O. S. and S. O. Home swimming team, enabled his team to take ninth place in the preliminary rounds of the Southern half of the state swimming meet staged at the Dayton Roosevelt High School pool Saturday by virtue of taking second place in the 100-yard free style event.

Jones defeated Cox, star McClain High, Greenfield, swimmer, by two lengths and then placed second in the finals. His time for the century was 65.1 seconds. Jones had previously competed in the fancy diving and forty-yard free style events on the program.

As a result of finishing second, the Cadet is eligible to participate in the state finals at Cincinnati, February 25.

The Home team's time in the relay race was comparatively slow due to the absence of two regular members of the team, McKinley and Marion, who were ill and could not compete.

DEATH CLAIMS BALL CLUB EXECUTIVE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Death today had claimed one of the most popular and best informed men in baseball with the passing of Samuel W. Dreyfuss, vice president and treasurer of the Pittsburgh baseball club and son of Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates.

Death was due to pneumonia. Dreyfuss had been ill for a month. He was born in Louisville, Ky., on November 9, 1896. Soon after graduating from Princeton in 1919 he became associated with his father in the operation of the Pirates. In 1921 he was named treasurer and in 1929 also was elected vice president.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Wolf Dreyfuss, a three-year-old son, Barney Dreyfuss, II, his parents, and a sister Mrs. Eleanor Benswanger, of Pittsburgh.

KEEPING It Hot

Stove League Gossip

Mr. Rogers Hornsby, arriving on the Pacific coast to complete Cub training plans on Catalina Island, was immediately surrounded by questioning scribes. So the Rajah found a comfortable divan and did some talking.

"You know what would be a great thing?" he asked. "The Yanks and the Cubs clashing in the world series. That would be swell." The scribes agreed, remembering that Joe McCarthy, whom the Rajah succeeded as Cub boss, is now the Yankee pilot.

"The Yanks are a good team. And Joe is a smart, capable manager. Nothing would please me better than to get into the fall classic with Joe the generalissimo of the friendly enemy."

Having paid his compliments to his erstwhile chieftain, Hornsby turned to his favorite topic, his own team, the Cubs.

"Put it down in good sized type," he said, "that the Cubs are an even better ball club right now than they were last year. Our mound staff has been strengthened and I think a weakness there was the reason we didn't make it two straight flags last season."

Hornsby declared emphatically that he expected to play many games next season. "And all this bunk," he said, "about some of the Cubs being dissatisfied is just that—bunk!"

"I'm sure every man will hustle for me as he did for Joe. I think they proved that when in the final days of the season they smacked over the Reds and then knocked the White Sox for a row in the city series. Don't worry about the Cubs—just watch them!"

GENERAL JUNIORS DROP THIRD GAME

Scoring what may be characterized as an upset, Port William Juniors registered a 15 to 11 victory over H. G. Patterson's Central Junior High cagers in the preliminary to the Xenia Central-Dayton Stivers basketball tilt at the local gym Saturday night. The defeat was the third for Central juniors this season. Port William cagers led most of the way, Latimer starred for the losers, accounting for most of the points scored by his team.

The Theater

The marriage of Charles Farrell and Virginia Valli may precipitate a run of Hollywood nuptials as young Frank Albertson's mating with Virginia Shelly is announced for March 7, the first of the spring list.

The marriage will take place at 6 p. m. at the Church of the Flowers in Glendale and culminates a romance began in high school, since then both have turned to pictures. Frank is under contract to Fox, where he has just completed the juvenile lead with Will Rogers in "A Connecticut Yankee at King

Warner Baxter, who is now threatening the leading role in "St. Elmo." Allan Dwan will direct and the film will start when Love finishes with "Women of All Nations." The plan evidently side-tracks "The Masqueraders."

Charles Rogers, new Pathe production chief, has effected a reconciliation between the studio and Ann Harding by tearing up her old contract and giving her a new one for three years. He characterized her former salary as a "cup of coffee" and gave her a big increase.

Twenty Years '11- Ago -'31

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher will start Wednesday for New Orleans, where they will attend the Mardi Gras.

The deciding game for the state basketball championship will be played Thursday night at Yellow Springs between Antioch and Muskingum. The Muskies are unbeaten in nineteen games this season.

Mr. Charles Dodds has as his guest for a few days, Mr. C. J. Van Osdel, Ashland, manager of a marble plant there owned by George Dodds and Sons.

Cecilia Loftus

Famous on stage for many years in imitations, enters talkers as dominating aunt in "East Lynne."

Arthur's Court" while she has played small parts in a number of films. The silent version of the King Arthur film was just being released ten years ago along with Chaplin's "The Kid," Griffith's "Way Down East" and Pola Negri's "Passion."

Fox has decided to assign Marguerite Churchill to the role of the girl in the talkie version of "Over the Hill" while Cecilia Loftus, veteran stage actress, will take the mother role made famous by Mary Carr. She was the sullen sister in the talkie "East Lynne" also. Henry King is directing.

Margerie Rambeau's screen roles display increasing prominence. Metro has bought Edward Knoblock's "The Lullaby" as her next vehicle and H. H. Van Loan, a close friend of Miss Rambeau, is writing the adaptation. The story is one in which an elderly woman tells the story of her downfall as an object lesson to a young girl. Edgar Selwyn will direct.

The opening of "Cimarron" in Pawhuska, Okla., will be a notable event. This is the town upon which Edna Ferber modeled her "Ozage" in the story. Yancey Cravat's newspaper, the Oklahoma Wigwag, was patterned after Pawhuska's Daily Journal Capital.

After some indecision Fox has settled upon Edmund Lowe to play the magician hero of "The Spider" a mystery melodrama which enjoyed stage success a couple of years ago. Until recently the picture was intended for

ANTIOCH PLAYERS TO PRESENT SHAW AND BARRIE PLAYS

George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" and Sir James M. Barrie's "The Twelve Pound Look" will be presented by the Senior Players of Antioch College on the evenings of March 5 and 6 at the Yellow Springs Opera House. "Androcles and the Lion" will feature the performance. It is based on the early fable of the lion with the thorn in his paw and of the slave who befriended him. The main characters are a group of early Christians who are to be thrown to the lions to amuse a Roman mob. Shaw treats the subject in a modern light, making the martyrs very much like the people of today.

The play consists of two acts and a prologue, in itself comical. It is important for Shaw's treatment of history and shows his belief in the lack of progress in the world.

"The Twelve Pound Look," which in the American vernacular means "The Sixty Dollar Look," is one of the most popular one-act plays of the present according to Prof. Basil H. Pillard, director of the players.

An Englishman about to be knighted, meets his former wife who had run away from him presumably with another man. As the story develops it reveals that she left him in order to make something useful of herself, rather than remain a useless society beauty.

The Antioch Players, who are already famous for their development of new affects in staging and lighting, are again experimenting with more unusual methods along the same lines in these plays. Due to the extreme success of the Players' recent plays, Shaw's "Misalliance" and Martin Flavin's "Children of the Moon" it has been found necessary to present "Androcles and the Lion" two evenings. The seats will be reserved for the Friday, March 6, evening performance and mail orders for reservations addressed to Chas. Swander, business manager, will be taken care of.

TWO INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS FATAL

Record of Greene County industries for January was forty-one accidents, of which two were fatal, one caused permanent disability, eleven resulted in more than seven days time loss, one seven days or less and twenty-six medical cases causing no loss of time, according to claims filed with the state industrial commission during the month. The total time loss for Greene County was 12,889 days.

In December this county had forty-four accidents with no fatalities and 317 days time loss, records disclose.

DEATH CLAIMS MISS HATTIE WHITMER ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered shortly before Miss Hattie W. Whitmer, former Xenian, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Marshall D. Lupton, Indianapolis, Ind., Sunday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock. She had been ill six weeks suffering from influenza but her death was sudden and was a shock to her many friends in this city.

Miss Whitmer was born in Westville, O., October 7, 1866, the daughter of the Rev. David and Amanda Gardner Whitmer. The Rev. Mr. Whitmer was a pastor of the M. E. Church and at the time of his retirement was serving as pastor of the Union circuit in Greene County. The Whitmer family had resided in Xenia and Greene County for the past forty years.

Following the death eleven years ago of her brother, George, with whom she made her home, Miss Whitmer had spent her time at the homes of her sisters, Mrs. Lupton and Mrs. W. B. Fulghum, Dallas, Tex. She was a member of the First M. E. Church, this city, and during her residence in this city, was active in the work of the church.

The following brothers and sisters survive: Clarence, Chicago; Mrs. Lupton, Indianapolis; Mrs. Fulghum, Dallas, and J. H. Whitmer, this city. Charles W. Whitmer, Hill St., is a half brother.

The remains have been removed to this city to the home of her brother, J. H. Whitmer, 8 W. Market St., where funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the Whitmer home Tuesday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"Two Years Since I Had a Headache"

Says Florence Sherman of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Calif. — "For years I suffered with splitting headaches," says Miss Florence Sherman of this city. "I tried everything for relief, but nothing did more than temporary good. Finally I went to my doctor. He attributed the cause to constipation, and prescribed Pluto Water—a small dose each morning, diluted in hot water. That was two years ago. Since then, thanks to Pluto, I have never had a headache from this cause."

Pluto Water is more than a relief for constipation—although it is in that connection that it is best known. Pluto Water will relieve the most stubborn case in from thirty minutes to two hours; but, taken regularly each morning (a small quantity in hot or cold water) it will keep the system regular, help ward off many serious complaints. Try it today. Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Ind., and is sold at drug stores and fountain everywhere.
